AEROSPACE MEDICINE AND HUMAN PERFORMANCE

JOURNAL OF THE AEROSPACE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

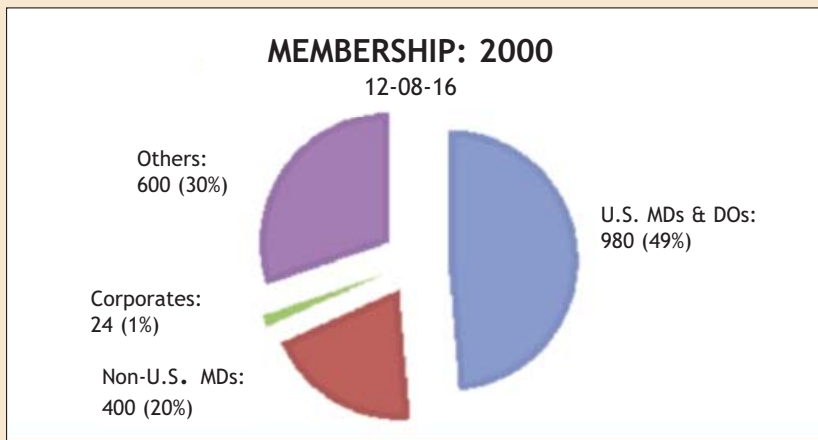

AEROSPACE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

The International Leader in Aviation and Space Medicine and Human Performance

Now in our 91st year!

The Aerospace Medical Association (AsMA) is a non-profit organization. Our members are physicians, physiologists, psychologists, human factors specialists, nurses, students, residents, technicians, and others working to solve the problems of human existence in threatening environments on or beneath the Earth or sea, in the air, or in outer space. Since its founding in 1929, the efforts of AsMA members have led to pressurized aircraft, oxygen systems, aeromedical evacuation, fire-retardant interiors, ejection seats, airline medical kits, and many other innovations. Contributions by members of AsMA are found wherever men and women dare to go.

AsMA members can be found, often in high-ranking capacity, working for the various medical and research divisions of NASA, FAA, DOT, DOD, the military, major commercial airlines, and many other public and private organizations.

Entering its 91st year in publication, Aerospace Medicine and Human Performance (formerly Aviation, Space & Environmental Medicine) is a peer-reviewed monthly publication. The original scientific articles in this journal provide the latest available information on investigations into such areas as: Human performance, cabin air quality, motion sickness, traveler's thrombosis, space tourism, fatigue, jet lag, psychological stress of flight and duty, health maintenance of pilots, increased or decreased gravitational forces, thermal stresses, pilot vision, circadian rhythms, artificial environments, predictors of success, human factors engineering, and clinical care.

This journal also provides teaching material and reviews for health care professionals.

By advertising in Aerospace Medicine and Human Performance, you are promoting your goods and services to the most influential group of medical officials in the aerospace field, worldwide.
