

AsMA Scholarships

The Jeffrey R. Davis, M.D., Aerospace Medicine Endowed Scholarship: awards $500.00 to a recipient. AsMA / AMSRO members can use the scholarship to attend any of the aerospace medicine conferences at the University of Texas Medical Branch (Galveston, TX). All AsMA member students/residents currently attending UTMB can use the scholarship to attend the AsMA annual scientific meeting. Apply by completing the application form, and submit it to the AsMA Home Office by January 31.

The Stanley R. Mohler, M.D., Aerospace Medicine Endowed Scholarship: this scholarship of $500 offered by AsMA's Foundation is intended to provide a training grant to help students and residents in aerospace medicine fund their studies or research activities. Full-time students and residents from any country are eligible, but priority will be given to those early in their careers and to those who are members of the Aerospace Medical Association and the Aerospace Medical Association Student and Resident Organization. The application is usually due around March 31.

Aerospace Medical Students and Residents Organization (AMSRO) Scholarship: offers a $1,000 travel stipend to students and residents for attending an aerospace medicine meeting of their choice. Applications are currently submitted to Alex Garbino; electronic submissions are required. Deadline is generally around February 14.

The Space Medicine Association (SMA) Jeffrey R. Davis Scholarship: the purpose of this $500 scholarship is to encourage students who have demonstrated academic achievement and shown an interest in Space Biology and Space Medical Operations to further pursue a career in Space Medicine. The award recipient also receives free registration to the Scientific Meeting of the Aerospace Medical Association. The application is available on SMA's website, and the deadline is usually around March 1.

The Space Medicine Association (SMA) Wyle Scholarship in honor of Robert Ellis: this $500 scholarship is intended to encourage students who have demonstrated academic achievement and have shown an interest in Space Biology and Space Medical Operations (e.g., biomedical engineering, space flight physiology, human factors research, nursing, psychology, safety, life sciences, etc.) to further pursue a career in Space Medicine. The award recipient also receives a human space flight-related book and free registration for the Scientific Meeting of the Aerospace Medical Association. The application is available on SMA's website and the deadline is generally around March 31.

The International Association of Military Flight Surgeon Pilots (IAMFSP) Scholarship: offers a $500.00 (U.S.) scholarship available to a student in the medical sciences for the purpose of defraying the cost of attending the AsMA Scientific Meeting. Eligible students include Masters or Doctorate candidates in the medical sciences. Candidates can send a letter describing their interest in the scholarship and why they would be the best candidate (250 words or less) to: IAMFSP Scholarship Fund; c/o Capt. Edwin Park, MC, USN; edpark@ix.netcom.com. School status and interest in aerospace medicine/human flight performance/pilot-physician issues should be included. The scholarship is presented in person at the IAMFSP business meeting. If the primary selectee is not able to attend the AsMA meeting, the scholarship passes to an alternate who is attending. Deadline is usually 28 February.

Related Organization Scholarships

The International Academy of Aviation and Space Medicine (IAASM): the aim of this scholarship program is to enable young physicians who are starting on a career in aerospace medicine to either attend a formal course of instruction in aerospace medicine or to work in a recognized aerospace medicine training or research institute for instruction, and for research experience in the discipline. This scholarship is for $15,000 U.S. For more information or to apply, please see the IAASM website at www.iaasm.org, where a copy of the Scholarship Application Form is available in either English or French. Deadline is usually around June 30.